Russia May Remove All But One of Consulates Soon From Manchoukuo

Japanese Take View That Incident Is No Preparation for War, But Hinges on An Old Diplomatic Dispute.

TOKYO CENSORSHIP

Officials Put Partial Censorship on Japanese Press Accounts of Military Clashes on Frontier.

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press) Tokyo, Feb. 17.—A Japanese foreign office spokesman said tonight that information from Hsinking indicated Russia soon would withdraw all her consulates except the consulate-general at Harbin from Manchoukuo.

Officials said they believed the withdrawals were not connected with the recent fights along the Manchoukuan borders and could not be interpreted as a preparation for war.

They said that, instead, the Russian action could be regarded as an outcome of the three-year dispute over the desire of the Japan-created empire of Manchoukuo to establish consulates at Khabarovsk, Nikolaevsk, Verkhneudinsk, and Irkutsk, in addition to those established in 1933 at Blagovestchensk and Chita.

Manchoukuo pointed out that the Soviet maintained consulates at Mukden (closed last week), Taitshar, Heilho, Manchul, and Pogranichnyay, in addition to Harbin, and demanded an equal number in Russia.

Japanese officials applied a partial censorship today to Japanese press accounts of the dangerous situation arising from recent sanguinary military clashes on the ill-defined Manchoukuo-outer Mongolia frontier.

The officials ordered the press not to publish anything concerning the issue except Japanese and Manchoukuan government communiques.

The ban was attributed authoritatively to an official desire to avoid inflaming public opinion, while a series of official conferences were started in Tokyo, in search of means to prevent the border friction from developing into a Russo-Japanese war.

Neither Tokyo nor Hsinking, capital of the Japanese-advisee state of Manchoukuo, issued communiques immediately after the Manchoukuan government protested to the outer Mongolian people's republic, demanding immediate "evacuation" of Manchoukuan territory.

A report from the Japanese general headquarters at Hsinking of Mongol raids in the Lake Bor region reached the Tokyo war office today, and War Minister Yoshitoki Kawashima immediately conferred with his staff officers.

Officially, the war office and foreign office agreed in a conference to reject a Soviet proposal that neutrals be included in a joint commission which the Japanese suggested be created to liquidate Far Eastern border conflicts of January 29 and 30.

State Mayors' Conference.

New York, Feb. 17. (AP)—The State conference of Mayors, opening at 2:30 p. m. today will consider at least four different measures to facilitate the erection and operation of city-owned power plants. Three of the proposals are aimed at overcoming provisions of the state law which upset New York city's proposed municipal yardstick power plant last fall. The fourth would amend the general municipal law to permit funds to be borrowed from the federal government for the construction of such plants without liability on the part of the city.

Conference Approved.

Washington, Feb. 17. (AP)—President Roosevelt's plan for a Pan-American conference today brought indications of general approval among the interested nations. From Geneva, however, came word that although officials of the League of Nations commended the peace move, there was some anxiety lest Latin American nations might grow less interested in Geneva. The President asked the nations to meet at Buenos Aires soon "to determine how the maintenance of peace among the American republics may best be safeguarded."

Health Conditions "Best."

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17. (AP)—New York state's health conditions at the beginning of this year were the best in many years, except in the field of cancer control, the report of the State Health Department for 1935 indicates. The death rate, 10.8 per 1,000 population, was lowest in a half century. Infant and maternal mortality were the lowest in history, but the cancer death rate had risen to "the highest level so far experienced."

"State of Alarm" in Spain.

Madrid, Feb. 17. (AP)—"State of Alarm" to last night days was declared throughout Spain today following the deaths of six persons in yesterday's general election. The state of alarm—which does not suspend civil processes—was proclaimed in the face of rumors that a "state of war" might be instituted. Authorities feared that disorders might result from large leftist rallies in the northern. A cabinet session was called.

Roy D. Chapin Is Dead, "President-for-a-Day" And Motor Car Pioneer

ROY D. CHAPIN

Detroit, Feb. 17. (AP)—Roy D. Chapin, who left college in 1902 to turn his youthful hobby of photography to profit in an automobile company, lay dead here today, a pioneer of the industry.

The former secretary of commerce, ill less than a week with pneumonia, died last Sunday in a hospital. He was 55 years old.

Since 1910 Chapin had been president of the Hudson Motor Car Company. He was named secretary of commerce by President Hoover in 1932 to succeed Robert P. Lamont.

For a day, on November 7, 1932, when the President and many cabinet officers were away from the capital, Chapin was the highest ranking officer of the nation in Washington.

He had his first big automotive experience in 1901 when he drove a one-cylinder car on the first motor trip from Detroit to New York, 707 miles, carrying spare parts and doing his own repair work. The route took him through Canada, to Buffalo and Albany, and required seven and one-half days, but he reached New York in time for the second automobile show there.

Persistent Optimist.

Roy Dikeman Chapin was one of the persistent optimists of the automobile industry who joined its pioneers in the days before it could be dignified as an industry to help in its development from nothing to one of the leading units of the world's industrial fabric.

He drove the first motor car to make the Detroit-New York trip under its own power. He had to carry spare parts and wait for replacements from the factory en route.

Chapin was only 21 when, at the beginning of the century, he left school to take a job making photographs of early motor cars to be used in sales promotion. This paid him $35 a month. Three years later he was general sales manager of the Oldsmobile company, and before he was 30 he became president and general manager of the Hudson Motor Car Company.

Almost from the beginning of his association with the industry, Chapin began an ardent advocacy of good roads, and figured largely in the educational work that led to the extension of improved highways throughout the world. Highway development seemed to him as near to Chapin's heart as was the prosperity of the motor car industry.

He saw in the development of international highways not only the extension of markets for motor cars and other products, but the bringing about of a "frictionless" world that could only enhance good will among peoples of the world.

Chapin was born in Lansing, Mich., February 22, 1880, his father, a lawyer, being Edward C. Chapin. His mother, before her marriage, was Ella King.

In the decades that he contributed to the advancement of the automobile industry, Chapin saw it encounter several periods of depression, always to come out of them greater than before. Although disclaiming any desire to be regarded as a prophet, he never looked forward and contended the economic trend always was upward and upward. There might be brief periods that might be termed "breathing spells," he said, but they were only to give opportunity to "stop and think over what we are here and where we are going."

In the world war Chapin was chairman of the highways transportation committee of the Council of National Defense. Besides his membership in various organizations related to the automobile industry, Chapin was director in several fraternal banks and member of several clubs. At the University of Michigan he was a Phi Delta Theta. In 1921 he wrote "The Economics of Highway Transportation."

Chapin was married in 1918 to Miss Inez Tideman, of Savannah, Ga. They had six children.

Washington, Feb. 17. (AP)—The Senate today passed an appropriation bill carrying $2,609,751,905 including $1,730,000,000 to pay the bonus and $879,751,905 to run the independent offices of the government in the next fiscal year.

The measure, which now goes back to the House for action on the bonus amendment, carried one of the largest of peace-time appropriations for combined regular and emergency expenditures of government departments.

The $3,300,000,000 original public works appropriation included in a deficiency bill three years ago was the record.

The largest emergency peace-time appropriation not included in a regular supply measure was last session's $4,880,000,000 fund for work and direct relief, while the record war-time allotment for a government department was $10,225,000,000 for the army in 1918-1919.

Political Jousts

Washington, Feb. 17. (AP)—Angry jousts over an inflationary farm bill and the Townsend old age pension plan featured the political picture today, leading observers to wonder about the effect on the campaign.

Representative O'Connor (D-N. Y.), chairman of the House rules committee, listened yesterday to Father Charles E. Coughlin's broadcast charge that O'Connor was a "servant of money changers" and had "a stronghold" on the Frazier-Lenke bill calling for an issue of new money up to $3,000,000,000 to refinance farm mortgages.

Enraged, the New Yorker wired a threat to the priest "to kick you all the way from the Capitol to the White House with clerical garb and all the silver in your pockets which you got by speculating in Wall Street while I was voting for all farm bills."

O'Connor also is in the middle of the Townsend incident. His committee resumed hearings today on the resolution of Representative Bell (D-Mo.) for a congressional investigation of the Townsend organization and its promoters.

In New York, the Townsend plan was described as "one of the most visionary and impossible schemes ever presented for public acceptance" by the annual report of the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching, published today.

"In no other civilized country, except in the United States, would it be possible for a wild and reckless measure, like the Townsend plan, to receive the support of the governor and legislature of a great state, or be offered in a bill before the national congress."

Representative Amble (P-Wis.), chairman of the American Commonwealth Federation, declared in a Washington statement:

"If Congress wants to investigate something which don't they investigate the Tom Fendegast machine in Kansas City, Missouri, one of whose men introduced the resolution to investigate the Townsend movement; why doesn't Congress investigate Tammany in New York or the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago, or better still, Jim Farley, or the American Liberty League?"

Another Candidate

Representative McGroarty (D., Calif.) declared that in line with plans to send a Townsend delegation from his state to the Democratic convention at Philadelphia, he would permit his name to be used as a presidential candidate. McGroarty declared the movement "controls all the coast states, some of the mountain states—Colorado and Montana—and also Ohio, Iowa and Florida."

On another political front, action apparently was foreseen for the Ohio presidential primary in the struggle between Colonel Frank Knox and Senator Borah of Idaho.

The Borah backers have announced that he will take to the hustings in Youngstown, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus and Akron. Colonel Knox has spoken widely in Ohio already.

The Constitution-Supreme Court question was kept alive by Donald R. Richberg, former NRA chief, in an address in Boston last night he struck out at "those who would have the constitution regarded as a sacred writing of divine origin, and then exalt the justices of the supreme court to the position of priests of an established religion."

He described as "fundamentally undemocratic" the court's power to invalidate federal legislation. He declared that if Congress should have the power to reappoint it provided it is "not clearly prohibited by definite language in the Constitution."

Body Unclaimed

Olean, N. Y., Feb. 17. (AP)—The body of Frank Fink, 24, described by Sheriff Lester W. Carlson as a "small town racketeer," lay unclaimed in an Allegheny mortuary today as search began for the slayer who took him for a "big four."

Ethiopian Army Under War Minister Goes Into Full Flight After Intense Fighting; Italians Take Amba Aradam.

HEAVY RAINS

Italians Pave Way for Advance by Artillery Attacks and Plane Bombardments.

By EDWARD J. NEIL

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

With the northern Italian army at the front lines, Feb. 16.—(By wire to Asmara, Eritrea, Feb. 17).—Six days of fierce fighting, which pitted 65,000 Italians against some 80,000 Ethiopians, have ended in a Fascist victory, yielding Amba Aradam and 300 square miles of territory to the invaders and opening up vast new fields for conquest.

The conflict, which started at dawn last Monday, came to a climax at dusk yesterday when blackshirts and Alpine troops stormed the face of Amba Aradam and planted the Italian tri-color at the mountain stronghold's highest peak.

The army of Ras Mulugheta, Ethiopian war minister, went into full flight.

Throughout the action, conducted with extraordinary speed despite the difficult mountain terrain and heavy rains of all six days, there was intense fighting.

The Italian high command estimated its own dead—all white troops—at less than 500. About 1,000 were wounded severely. The Italians set the Ethiopian losses at 4,000 or 5,000 dead and 15,000 wounded.

On Wednesday, two army corps which launched an encircling movement against Amba Aradam from points almost 15 miles apart, finally reached the very borders of their objective.

A sudden charge carried blackshirts of the "January 21" division up a small mountain known as "Priest's Hat" at the rear of Amba Aradam, while the right wing occupied a narrow spur called "Spine of Damsa" in front of the stronghold.

The Ethiopians, in a blistering counter-attack, beat the 15,000 Italians away from the slopes of Priest's Hat, but the Silla division succeeded in holding the Spine of Damsa and advanced to capture the neighboring town.

With their vital salients lost, the Ethiopian defenders withdrew within Amba Aradam itself, while the Italians swarmed closer despite the tropical downpours which washed out roads, bogged supply trucks and even grounded the air forces.

The main body of Ethiopians started a retreat toward Antalo, south of Amba Aradam, Friday while Ras Mulugheta and 39,000 of his imperial guard held the mountain fortress.

Holding out as long as possible, the Ethiopians finally relinquished their last stand yesterday and fled to the south.

Artillery attacks all along the 20-mile line from Makale to Amba Aradam had paved the way for the final occupation, the Ethiopian positions being shelled mercilessly while airplanes dropped hundreds of tons of bombs before being grounded.

The Fascist fighters looked down from Amba Aradam, a massive, stone, flat-topped barrier 9,000 feet high over an open path to the fertile plain stretching toward Amba Alaj, the next Italian objective, about 40 miles distant.

The threat to the Fascist occupation from both Ethiopian armies in the north seemed ended and, in view of the approaching spring and summer rainy season, the Italians said the latest offensive might be the last serious fighting until September.

"Surplus Power" of TVA May Be Sold Lawfully Says Court

Snow Causes Steuding Garage Roof to Fall On Sunday Morning

A heavy accumulation of snow on the roof of the one story garage building of A. O. Steuding on Hurley avenue caused the building to collapse from the weight about 5 o'clock Sunday morning. Several automobiles stored in the building were but slightly damaged and fortunately the accident happened at night when no one was in the building.

Only a short time prior to the collapse of the building Mr. Steuding's two sons had returned from their work as musicians and one of their cars had been run in the garage. The second car was parked outside as it was found impossible to open the door of the garage.

A large quantity of snow had been shoveled from the roof by Mr. Steuding but the thaw Saturday made the remaining snow heavy and apparently the weight was too much for the concrete block building to sustain. Located next to the Steuding residence the garage which housed the Studebaker agency operated in Kingston by Mr. Steuding was a one story concrete block building of considerable size. Only the older portion in front collapsed and the rear section remained standing and business will be continued in that portion of the building.

About 5 o'clock Mr. Steuding was aroused from sleep by a heavy noise which he believed was caused by the furnace. He went to investigate and as he passed a window facing the garage he saw the building had collapsed. He aroused his two sons, Robert and William, and they with their father made an investigation to determine the damage done to the several cars stored in the building.

Only one of the new Studebaker cars in the building suffered any damage and that was standing on the main floor underneath that portion of the building which came down. So severe was the weight that the tires, carrying about 35 pounds of air pressure, were flattened out completely but did not blow out. When the car was removed from the building and driven to the street the tires again assumed their natural dimensions.

The majority of cars stored in the building stood toward the west end and it was that portion of the building which did not collapse. The east walls buckled and slid outward, allowing the roof timbers to drop down, causing the structure to collapse.

When the accident happened many of the neighbors in the locality were aroused from sleep and dressed and went to the assistance of Mr. Steuding and his two sons who began to clear the wreckage and run the cars to safety. Mr. Steuding requested The Freeman to extend to these neighbors his thanks for their assistance which was greatly appreciated.

The front portion of the building was completely wrecked but the newer additions at the rear remain standing and will be used for continuing business. Asked this morning whether he would rebuild the front portion, Mr. Steuding said that he had not yet had time to make any plans.

The police were notified of the accident shortly after it happened when Miss Cecilia Smith, chief operator at the telephone company building, notified the department that the Steuding phone was ringing out a steady busy call. Officers Bur and H. Martin were sent to investigate but on their arrival they found Mr. Steuding already on the scene.

Three engine crew members were killed and one injured when a freight train on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad crashed into the rear of a stalled freight train about 55, the engineer, and two other trainmen not immediately identified, Ray Ebert, suffering two broken legs, was taken to a Minneapolis hospital. The freight was a double-header, hauling a long string of cars. The two locomotives continued, plowing some of the wreckage.

Volunteers from neighboring communities worked in 15 below zero weather to remove the bodies.

MINORITY REPORT

A Minority Report Contended That the Court Should Have Dismissed the Case.

By JAMES W. DOUGHTY

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Feb. 17. (AP)—In a decision which did not reach to the constitutionality of the TVA as a whole, the Supreme Court today upheld the right of the government to dispose of surplus power from dams constructed for purposes of navigation control or as a national defense measure.

With McFeynolds dissenting, the 8-to-1 decision read by Chief Justice Hughes held that the construction of Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals was constitutional and that the government purchase of transmission lines from the Alabama Power Company to distribute the energy was also valid.

A minority contended that the court should have dismissed the case. A record breaking crowd which included many notables listened intently as Hughes read the hour-long, history-making decision. The chief justice leaned forward and spoke in a clear forceful voice.

After ruling that the construction of the Wilson Dam was an act of national defense and for the improvement of navigation was legal, the court held that there was no constitutional prohibition against the manner in which the Tennessee Valley authority was disposing of the electricity generated there. "Surplus power" is power produced in excess of purely governmental needs.

Hughes asserted authority to dispose of property constitutionally acquired was specific, "by provided in the Constitution itself."

"The constitutional provision," he ruled, "is silent as to the method of disposing of property belonging to the United States."

CAPITAL NEWS

HOLLISTER STURGES, JR.

Albany, Feb. 17.—Coincidentally with week-end strategy expected to be served up in the legislative chambers when the session reconvenes tonight comes a statement from the newly-appointed Commissioner of Correction, Edward J. Mulrooney, that major crime is on the wane.

Opponents of some of the crime bills offered from the office of Governor Herbert H. Lehman, who brand these measures as unnecessary to prevent crime, but rather prefer to consider enforcement of existing laws, are expected to battle through this week on measures deemed unfavorable to the public's interest.

Meanwhile, the governor stands on his statement issued last Tuesday in which he declared that certain powerful influences were stopping passage of his recommendations.

The capitol awaits with keen interest the rumored threats of demanding an apology from the chief executive. Those who counter-attacked Mr. Lehman accepted his statement through the press as a personal charge against their character, and their tempers have not subsided over the week-end.

At home since Friday, many have had an opportunity to confer with party leaders as to what move, if any, to make next. Chief objectors to the Lehman program, which is the heart of the governor's annual recommendations to the legislature, are found in the Senate to be George R. Fearon, floor leader of the Republican minority, and John J. McNaboe, Tammany member.

In the Assembly body Horace M. Bone, of Onondaga county, and Harry A. Reoux, of Warren county, have drawn their fire on Mr. Lehman in bitter denunciations of his criticisms.

In a signed statement, Mr. Mulrooney says, "The downward trend in the number of major crimes which occur in the state each year, which has persisted since 1931, with the exception of 1934 which increased 1 per cent over 1933, continues to 1935, the number decreasing 2.5 per cent from 1934."

Observers here feel that while technically this is a problem of the legislature, the main source of trouble is to be found in New York city where the big organized crime rings are maintained.

Republicans are believed to be swifter in investigation of law enforcement in the state, which would subject, should the results be at all startling, upon the work of governors in carrying out the duties of their office. Strictly speaking, the executive department of the government is to enforce laws once they are made by the legislative department.

There has been offered constant criticism of too much legislative activity on the part of Governor Lehman and not enough executive functioning. Some even go so far as to say that he wishes to be the third branch of government, the judicial.

Some of the colorfulness of crime which has been lost in the Senate this week when the budget bills are battled between parties.

Senator Fearon will be a spearhead of attack on the fiscal program and his vulnerable opponent will be Jeremiah F. Twomey, general Democratic chairman of the Senate Finance committee.

In signing Assemblyman Wadsworth's measure to extend the life of the TERA until April of this year the governor furthered Arthur H. Wicks' bill of last year and the year before. Senator Wicks introduced the companion measure in his chamber; the Senate substituted Wadsworth's on final passage.

NAMES in the NEWS

ONE of the first things a cub reporter learns is that names make news. There are two kinds of names which make news. Names of people. And names of things—products and services—things which touch you more closely than the thunderings of a Senator or the escapades of a Prince.

Look through the advertisements in this newspaper and you'll see names you've known most of your life. Dependable names—names that stand for value—announcing improvements in quality, improvements in service, new and better ways to perform old household tasks, ways to save money and raise your standard of living.

Follow the news those names are making, day after day. Read the advertisements regularly, and use them as millions of other people are doing—to keep up-to-date in the world of goods and services; to save time, effort and trouble in shopping; to help budget your expenditures and get the most for your money.

Long Charged With -Drunken Driving

David R. Long of Foxhall Avenue Accused by Police With Operating Car Sunday While Intoxicated—Snyder Pleaded Guilty to Similar Charge—Other Police Cases.

David R. Long of 27 Foxhall avenue, was arrested at 4:40 o'clock Sunday morning by Officers Bosa and Edward Leonard, who charged Long with operating a car on McEntee street, near Broadway, while intoxicated. This morning in police court Long was represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan who entered a plea of not guilty for his client and the hearing was adjourned to March 2, and bail bond continued.

The arrest of Long followed a collision between Long's auto and the Ford dump truck of Frank Churchwell of 61 Pine Grove avenue. Miss Helen Rifenbary of East Chester street, who was riding with Long, was slightly injured and removed to her home in a taxi by George Stork.

William Snyder of 79 Gage street, who was arrested on January 14, on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated on Broadway, appeared in police court today with his attorney, Walter J. Miller, and entered a plea of guilty. He had formerly pleaded not guilty and a jury had been drawn to try the case this evening. Judge Culliton imposed a fine of $50 and revoked Snyder's driving license.

Frank Krajewski of Third avenue, arrested on three charges, was arraigned. One charge was that of not having a certificate of registration with him for the truck he was operating; another charge that of driving a truck with only one license plate on it, and the third charge was that of driving with illegal license plates. Judge Culliton imposed a fine of $2 each on the charges.

Stanley E. Carson, 23, of 44 St. James street, was arrested Sunday afternoon by his father, Samuel Carson, who charged his son with disorderly conduct. This morning the hearing was adjourned to Wednesday in police court.

Street Force Worked All Day Sunday Here

Work of removing the snow from the city streets was being pushed forward as rapidly as possible by Superintendent David Conway of the Board of Public Works with a force of about 130 men and 45 trucks. The crew worked all day Sunday until 5 o'clock that afternoon and resumed at 7 o'clock this morning. The milder weather has been a big aid in the snow removal problem as the men have been able to work more freely.

The two snow loaders are still working as well as the Walter plow and the big Baker plow, which is attached to the tractor. The grad machine was also placed at work scarifying and grading the streets that had become rutted.

Men are also at work clearing all the catch basins preparing for the expected thaw, and all of the sewer outlets have been checked to see that they were open.

Last night the sanding machine was placed at work sanding all of the slippery places and some of the hills were sanded again this morning.

As a result of the work accomplished by the street department, all of the streets in the city are open to traffic.

The work of carting away the snow is being confined to the business sections and Broadway.

Today Kingston streets were in far better shape than the streets in other cities along the Hudson river, including the streets in New York city. Residents of Kingston who have driven in New York city this week state that the streets, especially the side streets, are in terrible shape, with ice fully a foot thick and many deep ruts. So bad are the streets in the big city that it was found safe to drive under 20 miles an hour.

Elks Celebrate Founding of Order

Kingston Lodge of Elks took part in the 68th anniversary of the founding of the order, with the 1,600 other lodges throughout the country, by initiating a large class of candidates in honor of the Grand Exalted Ruler, Judge J. T. Hallinan of Queensborough Lodge.

City Judge Bernard A. Culliton welcomed the candidates to the Elks fold, telling them that they "should feel highly honored in joining such a great American organization." His speech follows:

Kingston Lodge, No. 550, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, celebrates tonight the 68th anniversary of the founding of the order. You men, new brothers of this lodge, are doubly honored in having your induction into the order take place on the occasion of the celebration of this anniversary, and secondly, in being a part of the class being initiated throughout Elksdom in honor of Judge James T. Hallinan, the grand exalted ruler.

I, personally, am honored by being extended the opportunity to speak to the new members on this occasion, and to say a word of welcome to them on behalf of their brothers in Kingston Lodge.

Not infrequently, men make application for membership in fraternal, social and civic organizations from purely selfish or private motives, or perhaps they cannot overcome the salesmanship of some member of the membership committee, enthused with the task of increasing membership during a concentrated drive—and sometimes an applicant appears unsolicited, attracted by the work of the organization in welfare, charity or some other of its public functions. Whatever may have been the motive or inducement, the fact often remains that the applicant follows through to membership without a full cognizance of the background of the organization and in some cases an ignorance of the principles underlying its very existence. Tonight, you men have had the good fortune to have the principles of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks clearly and capably enunciated for you. They should be fixed indelibly upon your minds as a permanent record and as a guiding light in your future as Brother Elks. Do not receive them casually or regard them lightly. You are now a part of the great body of Elksdom. The progress of this lodge and the entire order, the reputation of this lodge and the entire order, the pride and satisfaction which you derive from your membership depends in the main, upon the activity, both in and outside, of the individual member. In the language of that hackneyed and oft-repeated truism, you can neither get nor expect any more from your membership in the Elks than you, individually, put into the general welfare of your lodge. If you endeavor to chisel out more return than your investment warrants, the ultimate result will be fraternal bankruptcy. You will miss not only the real purpose of your membership, but you will lose the association, the good-fellowship and the comradeship which are your incidental rewards. In other words, you will regret rather than reverse this day and occasion. And that must not happen.

After the initiation there was a chicken dinner and entertainment featuring radio stars from station WHN.

Exalted Ruler Joseph Diach of Kingston Lodge urged the members to invite their friends to visit the Elks' home, which is open to the public today, to inspect it and observe the decorations for the 68th anniversary.

Exalted Ruler Diach also spoke in favor of the benefit basketball game tonight at the Municipal Auditorium where the Kingston Cities Service team will play the Elks charity fund.

Bruno May Get New Sentence Tuesday

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 17. (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, persisting in his denial of the Lindbergh baby kidnap-plot, may be re-sentenced today or tomorrow to die for the crime.

The convicted man underwent a long period of sharp questioning yesterday by Samuel S. Leibowitz, New York attorney who recently was added to Hauptmann's defense staff. "We are making progress," Leibowitz said as he left the conference in Hauptmann's death cell in the New Jersey state prison.

Leibowitz refused to explain what he meant by "progress," but it was learned afterward that Hauptmann had not changed his story.

After the prison conference, Leibowitz hurried to the South Ambury home of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, whose 30-day reprieve of Hauptmann's first death sentence expired Saturday at midnight.

Subsequently, the governor reiterated that he would not grant the condemned man another reprieve unless Attorney General David T. Wilentz agreed one was necessary.

With the first reprieve expired, state attorneys planned to ask Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who presided at Hauptmann's Flemington trial, to set a new execution date. This would fall sometime between March 23 and April 15.

Gov. Hoffman himself said in a brief statement after his three-and-a-half-hour talk with Leibowitz that the lawyer had subjected Hauptmann to "perhaps the hardest questioning" he has faced so far.

"You're worse as Wilentz," Hauptmann told Leibowitz, the defense attorney said.

point achieved in the Italian advance during the ill-fated campaign of 1896.

The East African commander-in-chief reported that the offensive—the third major movement since the war started in early October—developed into a "bitter battle," but that all objectives were reached against Ras Mulugheta's army.

Press dispatches reported the offensive concluded Saturday with the Ethiopian army of 80,000 in flight. Ethiopian losses estimated at about 5,000 dead and 15,000 wounded, and Italian deaths less than 500, with about 1,000 severely wounded.

The drive yielded 300 square miles of new territory to the Fascist campaign of conquest, reports from the actual front said, and gave Italy three more major towns in northern Ethiopia and 35 smaller villages.

Fascist officials attached particular importance to the victory, expressing belief that it quashed Ras Seyoum's hopes of cutting the Italian lines of communications between Makale and Haudien, 30 miles back toward the main Eritrean bases.

Coupled with Gen. Rodolfo Graziani's capture of Nekhelli, on the southern front, the northern victory was hailed by the Italians as a mere harbinger of a surrender by Haile Selassie.

The fresh offensives drove the Italian lines about 300 miles into Ethiopia from Italian Somaliland and 100 miles from Eritrea, leaving about 250 miles to go to Addis Ababa in the south and 300 miles in the north.

WAR DEBT FEELER

There may be more than meets the eye in a feeler put out by Greece
 for payment of her American war debt. The new government under the restored monarch, King George,
 wants to meet the interest on its debt to Uncle Sam, and also suggests possible payment of the principal if it could be scaled down to something like 75 per cent. In any international action by King George's government, it is well to remember his close association with Great Britain.
 His restoration was promoted by the British royal family, with the approval of the British cabinet. Greek royalty and British royalty are intermarried, the position of Greece in the eastern Mediterranean is important to the British Empire, and British influence there has long been powerful.

It might just be possible that the British government and some of our other war debtors have put Greece up to sounding out this country regarding fractional settlement of war debts. Such an adjustment with Greece would establish a precedent.
 Settling at anything like the rate mentioned would be a tremendous concession, and perhaps unpopular at first thought. Yet one dollar out of three on those 12 billions of foreign debts would be $4,000,000,000 better than nothing—which is what we stand to get from the present deadlock.

GENERAL STRIKES

That general strike in Pekin, Ill., was another good example of the wrong way to handle a labor dispute and the inevitable reaction. The American public while generally approving of union labor and collective bargaining, and sanctioning the strike principle within reasonable limits, as labor's only effective weapon when negotiations fail, insists on a strike being kept within its own proper boundaries.

A general strike overflows those boundaries. It is directed not merely against the employers in the dispute, but against the public. It aims to win its battle by making life
 so hard for noncombatants that they
 in self-defense will put enough pressure on the employers to make the latter yield to the strikers. The unfairness of punishing unoffending
 citizens and destroying unoffending
 business is so obvious that Americans will not stand for it.

This fact has been demonstrated over and over again. It is said that no general strike in this country has ever won. If the strikers win, they do so only by ceasing to paralyze the normal processes of community life and returning to the legitimate and lawful procedure of passive resistance. This latter method, when their cause is just, brings them popular support that they cannot get by coercion and violence.

PAINTINGS FOR RENT

Art museums in some communities have long rented paintings and other art works to members for a period of weeks or months. The idea usually has been to stimulate art education and appreciation and to attract museum patrons. A variation of the plan has been started in Cleveland where the purpose is primarily to benefit artists themselves.
 Members of the Cleveland Art Association, for a fee of $10, may rent for one year a painting by a local artist. The funds so raised will be used to purchase additional paintings. As the plan starts, members of the Association are permitted to contribute paintings, but no artist is allowed to give away a picture for rental.

The Association expects to build up a rental gallery of fine pictures, increasing it year by year with new works. Thus it will create a new market for the work of local artists.
 Needless to say, renting members who become attached to a lovely painting or who learn about pictures from their renting experiences will become buyers of pictures for their own permanent enjoyment. It appears to be a plan which will work out inevitably for the good of all concerned.

CIVILIZATION DEFINED.

J. P. Morgan says civilization requires a leisure class, and a family of leisure is one that employs a maid, and there are about 30,000-400 families in this country.
 We're not disposed to bother about Mr. Morgan's social philosophy
 but are interested in his statistics.
 Thirty million families would mean,
 according to the old rule of thumb,
 about 150,000,000 people, and all the census takers can find are about 135,000,000. But families, of course, are shrinking in size, and might not average more than a slight fraction over four at present.
 Allowing all possible shrinkage,
 there would be, according to Mr.
 Morgan's estimate, at least 120,000-000 of us with domestic servants, leaving only about 2,000,000 families where mother does her own housework. Frankly, speaking from casual experience and observation, we don't believe there are 20-000,000 families indulging in the luxury and leisure of domestic servants. If it's hired girls that produce civilization, at least three-fourths of us haven't got it.

VALUE OF PREVENTORIUM.

A very fine piece of work is now being done by what is called the preventorium, an institution to which children who have been in contact with tuberculous parents or brothers and sisters are now sent for observation. This means that tuberculosis, if present, will be discovered
 very early and the usual treatment
 —fresh air, rest and good food—is successful in almost all cases.

Youngsters who are in homes
 where a member of the family has been suffering with active tuberculosis may become infected by the spray from the coughing and sneezing of the tuberculous patient, and from the dust of the dried sputum (spit) that is in the air of the home.

Infection may also be caused by drinking infected milk and eating infected food. The milk may come from a tuberculous cow or may be infected from outside sources as other food is by flies, dirty fingers, coughing over it.

It is estimated that about 92 per cent of the infections come from man to man, and about eight per cent from tuberculous cows.

The value of the preventorium and institutions where examinations are made, in preventing infection from tuberculous in those who have been living in homes with tuberculous
 patients is seen in the report of Dr.
 F. L. H. Leipzig. On the basis of 1,000 cases that were under observation in the welfare station for tuberculous patients in Jena it was found that if those in contact with tuberculous patients were examined early, less than one per cent were found to have infectious tuberculosis, whereas if these examinations were postponed, their numbers are nearly 20 per cent.

When examinations are made regularly about 2 per cent develop infectious tuberculosis, and of this number only three in 100 die. However if the examinations are not made regularly 16 per cent are found to develop infectious tuberculosis and nine in every 100 of these end in death.

The thought then is that when anyone, child or adult, has been in contact with a patient suffering with active tuberculosis, examination should be made early and repeated from time to time, because if tuberculosis is discovered early the chances of effecting a cure are excellent.

THE BOOMERANG CLUB
BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

It was Nicholson, I don't yet see the motive. Was Carstairs on the track of Nicholson as the head of a dope gang? Or is your new lady friend the motive for the murder?
 "It might be both," suggested
 Bobby.

"Now that is a possibility," said Frankie. "But the first thing is to make sure about Roger Basington-French. The only thing we've got against him is the photograph business. If he can clear that up satisfactorily—"

"You're going to tackle him on the subject? Frankie, is that wise?
 If he is the villain of the piece it means that we're going to show him
 our hand."

"Not quite—not the way I shall do
 it. If he can explain the photograph
 then he may be a very valuable ally."

"How do you mean, Frankie?"

"My dear, your little friend may be an emotional scaremonger who likes to exaggerate, but supposing that her husband really wants to get rid of her and marry Sylvia.
 Don't you realize that in that case,
 Henry Basington-French is in mortal danger too? At all costs, we've got to prevent his being sent to the Grange. And at present, Roger Bas-ington-French is on Nicholson's side."

"Good for you, Frankie," said

Chapter 23
 FRESH START

FOR a moment the bold simplicity of the question quite took their breaths away. Both Frankie and Bobby started to speak at once.

"That's impossible—" began Bobby, just as Frankie said, "That would never do."

Then they both stopped dead as the possibilities of the idea sank in.

"You see," said Frankie eagerly. "I do understand what you mean. It does seem as though Roger must have taken that photograph. But I don't believe for one moment that he pushed Alan over. Why should he?
 He didn't even know him. They'd only met once—at lunch down here.
 They'd never come across each other in any way. There's no motive."

Frankie.

"Then who did push him over?"
 asked Frankie bluntly.

A shadow crossed Frankie's face. "I don't know," she said constrainedly.
 "Look here," said Bobby. "Do you mind if I tell Frankie what you told me? About what you're afraid of?"

Moir turned her head away. "If you like. But it sounds so melodramatic and hysterical, I can't believe it myself this minute."

And indeed the bald statement,
 made unemotionally in the open air
 of the quiet English countryside, did seem curiously lacking in reality.

Moir got up abruptly. "I really feel I've been terribly silly," she said, her lip trembling. "Please don't pay any attention to what I said. Mr. Jones.
 I must be going now. Good-bye."

She moved rapidly away. Bobby sprang up to follow her, but Frankie pushed him firmly back.

"Stay there, idiot, leave this to me."

She went rapidly off after Moira.
 She returned a few minutes later.

"Well," queried Bobby anxiously.
 "That's all right, I calmed her down. Now that you're not hampered by her being here, tell me all about it."

BOBBY did so. Frankie listened attentively. Then she said:

"It fits in with two things. First of all, I came back just now to find Nicholson holding both Sylvia Bas-ington-French's hands—and didn't
 he look dangerous at me!"

"What's the second thing?" asked
 Bobby.

"Oh, just an incident. Sylvia described how Moira's photograph had made a great impression on some stranger who had come to the house.
 Depend upon it, that was Carstairs."

He recognizes the photograph, Mrs.
 Basington-French tells him that it is a portrait of a Mrs. Nicholson, and that explains how he came to find out where she was. But you know, Bobby, I don't see yet where Nicholson comes in."

"You think it was he and not Bas-ington-French? Rather a coincidence if he and Basington-French could both be in Marchmont on the same day."

"Well, coincidences do happen. But

Frankie.

"Then who did push him over?"
 asked Frankie bluntly.

GOOD GARDENING

The garden you plan with a pencil
 in February may be a far finer thing than the one that actually grows in spring; but use the pencil anyhow. It is best to plan the whole thing on paper, and it's essential that various considerations be so arranged that the tall-growing crops won't shade the smaller plants. Generally speaking, rows should run north and south, but not of course, if that direction is counter to the long axis of the garden. If there's any shade, the land should slope gently toward the south
 or southeast.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Had former Vice President Curtis lived until the coming presidential campaign entered the really crucial stage, his contribution undoubtedly would have been an important one.

As far back as last August he announced his support of Governor Alfred M. Landon for the Republican nomination. His position was made clear in an interview in which he denied published reports assigning him on the side of Col. Frank Knox of Illinois.

"I'm for Governor Landon if he is a candidate," said Curtis. "I'll never commit myself for anyone else until I know what he intends to do."

Always a colorful campaigner, Curtis doubtless would have been a valued ally for the Kansas governor and his presidential aspirations.
 Few men knew the inside of politics, both from the standpoint of presidential maneuvering and the rough and tumble of the hustings,
 as did the former vice president.

FOREIGN COUNCIL DIRECTOR FAILED IN HISTORY ONCE

Cleveland, (AP)—When Brooks Emory was a boy in Salem, O., 15 years ago, he failed in history and geography courses in high school.

Now he is educational director of the Foreign Affairs Council here, and one of the most sought after commentators on foreign affairs.

The trouble with history in the old days, he says, was not in the subject matter, but in the way teachers offered it. It's still true, to an extent, he says.

"The subjects frankly bored me," he explains. "As in so many schools, they were dry because they were taught on a basis of facts and not of interpretation. That's the trouble. We have set up scholarship on a basis of memorizing. We don't teach pupils to think."

Miscellaneous articles—totaled 232,412 or 22,240 more than in the year previous. They ranged from single gloves to neckties and spades; from luncheon packages to handbags, dressing cases and expensive purses.

DIGESTION is often overtaxed by our tensehurried existence!

Smoking Camel Cigarettes Aids in Assuring Natural Digestive Action

"Hurry—hurry—hurry" seems to be the order of the day. People get caught in the lockstep of modern life. Tension finds the weak spot, so often—digestion. It has been shown that smoking Camels improves digestion... wards off the consequences of hurried, nervous living. Camels stimulate digestive action. They promote the feeling of well-being and good cheer so necessary to the proper assimilation of food. Camels set you right! And, in smoking Camels for digestion's sake, you may enter a whole new world of smoking pleasure. So turn to Camels. Expect an enticing mildness. Enjoy the appealing flavor of costlier tobaccos! They never tire your taste!

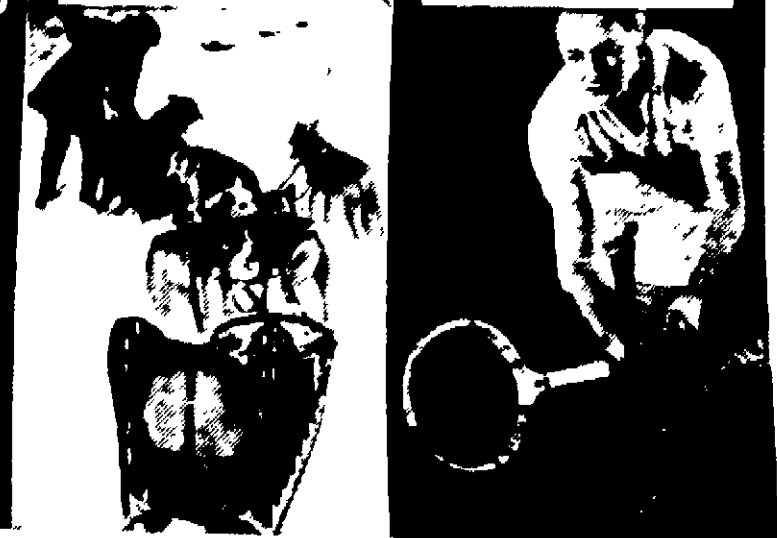

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

F. B. FOWLER on Star Route 1392, Maine, says: "It's eat-and-run with me, but I always top off with Camels. They are good for digestion."

HARD MITTER, Jane Sharp, tennis champion, says: "Smoking Camels helps me to digest my meal. Camels taste grand!"

HERE DELICIOUS FOODS TEMPT APPETITE—the famous Gold Coast Dining Room (above) at the Drake Hotel in Chicago. And here the fragrant, delicate smoke of Camels rises while Erik, famous maître d'hôtel, watches alertly over all to see that no wish goes unsatisfied. "So many of our guests smoke Camels," Erik says, "for they have found that choice tobaccos add to the pleasure of the meal. Camels are tremendously popular—a leading favorite here."

You'll Never Know
You'll never know if there are any stars till you look at the sky.
You'll never know if you can succeed until you try.

Harold—I suppose you think I'm a perfect idiot?
Girl—Oh, none of us are perfect.

There are so many ways of being a fool that no man can hope to dodge all of them.

Jack Tar had just arrived at the old homestead after voyaging for a number of years.

Jack Tar—Well, Mother, how did you like the parrot I sent you?
Mother—Well, it was nice and plump, Jack, but my! it was tough.

Of all the men coming up to the line in the race for better jobs, the trained ones are still the best bet.

A very ordinary sort of fellow got rich by striking oil, and he became very self important and was always trying to display his importance. One day he rode to the railway station, laid down a $20 bill, and exclaimed, "Newly Rich—Gimme a ticket!"
Ticket Agent—Where to?
Newly Rich—Anywhere. It doesn't make no difference. I got business all over.

Friend—Can you read that man's face?
Man—You don't have to. When he opens the lower part of it he tells all he knows.

A man always wrong in his judgments can not compete with one who is right occasionally.

Sambo—Ah who wouldn't a' wanted to be den dat ol' King Solomon.
Rastus—Why not, big boy?
Sambo—Huh! Huntin' up washin' for one woman am a big nuff job to me. But a thousand of em! Ugh! Dat make me so tired jes' thinkin' 'bout it Ah can't even wiggle mah toes.

Drummer—Yes, old fellow, I am the fastest man in the world!
Violinist—How come?
Drummer—Time flies, doesn't it? Well, I beat time.

Some people are making such thorough preparations for rainy days that they aren't enjoying today's sunshine.

Smathers—Your office sent me a cook last week.

Employment Office Manager—Yes, that's right.

Smathers—Well, it will give me the greatest pleasure if you will dine with me tonight.

Viewpoint: A philosopher said: "I can complain because rose bushes have thorns, or I can rejoice because thorn bushes have roses. It's all how you look at it." Much in life depends upon the point of view. Are you looking at the thorns or the roses?

City Girl—And I suppose at dusk, when the sun is stealing over the Rockies in purple splendor, you cowboys are huddled around the campfire broiling venison and listening to the weird, eerie, unnatural howlings of the coyotes.

Rattlesnake Gus—Well, ma'am, not exactly. Finally we go inside and listen to Amos and Andy.

A salesman who makes 20 calls a day will do more business than one who goes to the baseball or football game.

Man—Man always reaps whatever he sows.

Visitor—Not always. You should see the crop of weeds growing where I sowed my flower seeds.

Cornell Birthplace Of Half-Tone Process

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP).—Cornell University paused today to recall that it is the birthplace of the "half-tone" process used in making newspaper pictures, and to pay tribute to the inventor, Eugene Ives of Philadelphia, on his 81st birthday.

Ives, who is still active, also conducted early experiments at Cornell that paved the way for colored motion pictures and scores of other inventions.

In a letter to university officials,

Ives recalled that he was taken from his home in Litchfield, Conn., to become Cornell's first full-time photographer in 1874. He first used the half-tone process on the college newspaper.

Friends have maintained that Ives, had he had his process patented, might have realized millions of dollars from it.

BUDGET EXPENSES FOR THE GREAT DAY

White froth of wedding veil, gay banks of flowers, sweet peal of bells—that's the kind of memories every girl wants to have of her wedding day.

To have everything flow smoothly and happily requires good planning and budgeting by the bride and her mother. The bride's family, have most of the expense of the great event, so they must first decide how formal the wedding is to be, whether a caterer is to take charge of the wedding breakfast or whether the family can manage it themselves, and whether it is to be a church affair, with a charge for flowers, organist, soloist, sexton, and awning.

Whatever the degree of elegance of the wedding, it is the bride's family who pay all expenses connected with the church, the bridal outfit, the personal trousseau, the household trousseau, the invitations, the reception or breakfast, the cars to take the bridal party to the church, and gifts and usually bouquets for the bride's attendants, although it is perfectly proper for the groom to pay for the bouquets. It is his obligation to pay for the bride's bouquet, a corsage for the bride's mother and for his own mother, boutonnières for his father, the bride's father, the best man and ushers, the wedding ring, the fee for the minister, the marriage license, gifts to the best man and ushers, and usually a gift to the bride.

There are all sorts of details about what music to have played during the ceremony, how to arrange the receiving line, what menu to serve at the breakfast, what kind of invitations to choose, what is considered correct costume for bride, groom and attendants.

Do these details puzzle you? Then get reliable help from our 40-page Home Institute booklet, How to Plan Your Wedding. Every point made clear for all types of weddings, formal and informal. Hints on good form by a noted authority on etiquette.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

A black net cape tops a printed gown.
Liana Merwin

Separate capes, whether they be of net, lace, taffeta or the same fabric, add much character to the gown. While these fluffy capes appear to be just used for appearance sake, it is surprising how practical they are.

The "caped" gown above chooses imported printed crepe in black background with a large flower design in red for the gown itself. Its high neckline crosses at front and four narrow black velvet ribbons form the shoulder straps, while the decolletage at back is low cut. A corsage of huge red roses is the excitement at the waistline, and fullness of the skirt is placed at back.

The transparent cape of black silk double net, caught nonchalantly over the shoulders, gives added charm. A cape such as this can be worn with other gowns in one's wardrobe with telling effect.

Other harmonious color schemes shown among the new styles were worked out in prints with plain colors. A print featuring a royal blue background used a cape of royal blue net, while a print with dove gray background used gray for its cape.

New York State Foods Recommended to New Yorkers Because They Are Better

By PETER G. TEN EYCK
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets
Albany, New York

AS the winter wears on, with spring not too far away, it is well to take stock of some of our accomplishments—a sort of personal inventory.

Consumers' Information Service, of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets, brings you these weekly articles designed to aid and guide in food choices.

Answer is that milk is the most nearly perfect food Nature produces for our well-being. Its production and distribution to supply the needs of the more than 13,000,000 residents of New York State is a vast industry. Milk is the vital element of our diet in our early lives. It should continue its place on the list of things consumed every day. Young or old makes no difference. Milk is good and good for us regardless of age.

As some of us grow older we may be inclined to look upon milk as a sissy drink, a food beverage intended only for babies and not a real man's drink. Because that tendency to false thoughts sometimes arises. Consumers' Information Service seeks to overcome this misconception of the real truth and drive home the absolute fact that milk is a health essential, as necessary for the grown-up as for the child.

Questions Answered

Consumers' Information Service was begun in 1932 when the Department of Agriculture and Markets recognized the need of it. When to buy and what to buy were questions especially troublesome to the consuming public and the Department saw an opportunity to extend its services.

The response that has greeted the articles indicates that they were definitely needed.

As income rises, food purchases increase. Fluid milk and cream sales grow. Fresh fruit and eggs are added to diets from which they may have been missing when the food budget was low and the fare plain. Salads are welcomed back to dinner tables. More varieties and better quality meats take their rightful place on the table and everybody is happier. Booklets dealing with the preparation of foodstuffs are available at the Albany office of Consumers' Information Service without cost and due announcement is made as new booklets are added to the list.

Wide World
Commissioner Peter G. Ten Eyck

Most of the foods discussed in these articles are produced in New York State. There are good reasons why we should be particularly interested in the products of New York State, but of outstanding importance is the fact that their nearness to the markets where we trade means these foods come to us fresher than those shipped long distances.

Why Milk?

In the minds of some readers may have arisen the question: "Why is milk particularly emphasized?"

That is a fair question. The an-

Martha Larsen Foss Will Filed

New York, Feb. 15. (Special)—The late Mrs. Martha Larsen Foss, who died January 25, while temporarily residing at Tilton, left an estate formally described as being "$4,000 real property and $15,000 personal." It was learned this morning when her will was offered for probate in the Kings County Surrogate's Court.

Mrs. Sophie Larsen of Marbletown, mother of the decedent, inherits her daughter's interest in real estate here at 8220 Eleventh avenue, Brooklyn. The entire remainder of the estate is to be divided into three equal shares and kept in trust for Mrs. Foss' three minor children, Clifton, Franklin and Miriam, all of the Eleventh avenue address. Each will receive the income until they are 25 when they will receive their share outright.

Mrs. Henrietta Larsen Hunt of Tilton, sister of the Mrs. Foss, and Joseph Larsen, brother of this sister, are the executors of the estate. Mrs. Hunt is also named testamentary guardian of the three children. In her will, executed July 1917, Mrs. Foss said she made no provision for her husband, Tobias Foss of Chicago. "For the reason that for over 12 years he had failed to contribute to the support of myself and my children." The will also contained thirteen cash bequests to individuals and institutions, all of which were revoked by a codicil added on March 20th, 1921.

Ostriches Will Be Ostriches

Oklahoma City.—Zoo Keeper Leo Blundin went down to San Antonio, Tex., for two ostriches. He came back with one and this story about an ostrich that hid its head:

"There wasn't any sand in the truck.

"One of them managed to squeeze her head through a small hole in the door. I heard a twitter which mounted to a squawk.

"By the time I got around to the back of the truck, well—there was only one ostrich.

San Jose, Calif.—That gag about bathing beauties who won't go near the water took a new twist here. The water came to them.

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—A buying wave in utilities swept the stock market today as the Supreme Court handed down the TVA decision, and blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares changed hands at advances of fractions to nearly 3 points.

So great was the rush to acquire the power issues that the ticker tape at one time dropped five minutes behind floor trading while broadrooms groped to determine the extent and force of the rise.

Commonwealth & Southern, Columbia Gas, National Power & Light and Consolidated Gas appeared as top notch gainers, and others following in the wake included United Corp., American Water Works, American & Foreign Power and United Gas & Electric. On the curb exchange Electric Bond & Share rose sharply. Utility bonds followed the same lead.

Other equities were not neglected, and the farm implements, such as A. I. Case, Deere and International Harvester, were more than a point to around 5 points improved.

Rails, steels, metals, and numerous others advanced including U. S. Steel, Packard, Walworth, Remington Rand, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse.

Paid Firemen Are Being Physically Tested This Week

Members of the paid fire department of the city are undergoing physical tests this week. The tests are being made by the fire board physicians, who are to submit a report of the result of the tests with the fire board.

For some time there have been rumors current that the Board of Fire Commissioners planned to retire some of the members of the paid department to replace them with younger men, and it is likely that this is the reason why the members of the paid department are being tested physically.

The civil service board last year held physical and mental tests to make up an eligible list from which the fire board could select men in case any vacancies developed in the department this year. Sixty of the applicants successfully passed both the physical and mental tests. Under the rules of the board the names of those who passed the tests and are on the eligible list are not made public.

Trowbridge a Trustee.

Editor of Freeman.

In Saturday's issue of The Freeman I was surprised to read that I, along with three others, had been arraigned for public nuisance in city court as a member of Joyce Schrick Post, V. F. W. 715 I believe is an error and should be corrected. All officers of the Post arraigned on the strength of complaints made against the Post. The fact that I am a trustee alone makes me a defendant in the case. I was not in or near the "Dugout" on any of the dates mentioned in the complaints. I would greatly appreciate your cooperation in running this letter in your columns explaining my connection with the case.

Very truly yours,

Second Attack Of Stage Fever Is Hardest; Puts All But Mrs. Stevens On The Boards

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It's a case of "footlights in the blood" with Onslow Stevens' family.

Unlike theatrical families which handed down the tradition from generation to generation, the Stevens tried to get away from the theater and almost succeeded.

Onslow, the dark tall leading man, is best known now because he is in pictures. But he predicts that other members of the family will make theatrical names.

Twenty-five years ago, Housley Stevenson and his wife gave up the theater, in which they were rather well known. The father settled down to a business life. He became successful and prominent in Pasadena, where the family now lives.

"One of my earliest memories," says Onslow, "is of going on the stage with Mother and Dad in one of their plays. I wore a wig of golden curls and played a girl."

Busy Between Pictures

That was how his ambition for acting was born, and his father did not discourage him. But before he settled down seriously to a "career," Onslow wanted to see the world. At 14, practically full grown, he joined the army, served in Texas and later in China, and got his discharge when he was 18.

Then he started looking for movie work. He got a job as an electrician at the old First National studios, but had no luck as an actor. He was "discovered" at the Pasadena Community playhouse and has been in pictures ever since.

It is around this playhouse—which pays its actors nothing—that the Stevens family is building its theatrical future. Onslow goes back for about eight plays a year, sometimes stars, sometimes directs, often plays supporting roles. He does not like idleness "between pictures."

Also The In-Laws

As it is now, Onslow's mother is the only member of the family not actively interested in the theater.

The actor's brother, Housley, Jr., 22 and red-headed, is doing bits for pictures and stage. Robert, 15, has done no acting yet, but is in training at the playhouse—and helps with lighting effects.

Audrey, his sister, is active in the playhouse, both at acting and directing. She has made screen tests, too.

It was all too much for "Dad," says Onslow. "Dad" got tired of his retirement, and tried out for playhouse roles. They found parts for a veteran trouper.

But this is the pay-off. Audrey recently married Stephen R. Bonnstow, one of Walt Disney's cartoonists. Steve came out to the playhouse one evening to watch Audrey at work, and they saw him standing there and asked him to read lines. Steve now is a cartoonist by day and a leading man by night!

PREVIEWED

Today
Broadway: "King of Burlesque."

The Great White Way, background for more heartaches than any other street in the world, comes up for discussion in this Fox picture that fairly bristles with talent, spectacle and music. It tells of a burlesque show manager and of a girl who leads the chorus. The manager dreams of big things, of crashing Broadway with the swankiest musical show ever produced. He is encouraged by the chorus girl and discouraged by his partner. Needless to say he succeeds when he gets tangled up with a lady socialite. He marries the social light and his career starts on the downgrade. His stage presentations are flops and the final divorce. He becomes a drunk and a no good in the best tradition of broken down theatrical producers. How he climbs way back up to success is pleasant anti-climax and it proves the value of a woman's love or anything else one wants to call it. Warner Baxter, Alice Faye, Jack

Hard to Keep the Indians Straight

The Indians are getting so thick these days in the basketball field that it is harder to keep the different clans straight than it is to trace the family connections of the aborigines that originally inhabited this happy country when the Dutch arrived on the scene and introduced them into the realm of civilization.

Some of the tribal names seem to be especially popular so that it is sometimes difficult to tell just which lot of Sioux or Hopis, or what even it is, he is heart as members of the same tribe. But, evidently, the same tribal names are quite widely scattered. They are, some of them are "Friendly Indians" which adds to the mix-up.

Be it as it may, the Hopis and Sioux, who were among the teams that were on the way last Saturday along with the Eagles.

Against the four the Hopis played Barnes, Tempest, Van Buren, Finley and Murray and won 14 to 23. The Sioux played Ferguson, Dugan, Windum, Walker and De Witt. The game was played in the Port Ewen Reformed Church hall.

Salman and Decker were in the Hopis line up against the Eagles. In the game played in Epworth Hall the same day, which they also won 34 to 26. The Eagles played Shultz, Strouts, Craik, Pottinger, Olsen, Every, Strubel.

The building was damaged and the school was closed for several days. The community is now working to rebuild the schoolhouse.

Home Leaders Lose To Liberty In Game Marked By Many Fouls

The Home Leaders had to be content with the small end of a 41 to 32 score in their game against the Liberty Emeralds, played at Liberty Saturday night.

On field goals the score was close, standing 13 to 12 baskets, in favor of the Emeralds. On fouls—there were plenty of them called—Liberty had a bigger margin, making good on 15 out of 19, while the beat the Kingston boys could do was to get 8 out of 22 attempts.

Schline was high man for the Home Leaders, with five fields and two fouls, for a total of 12 points. Harkov, the particular bad medicine of the Emeralds, scored 16 points, eight of them from the foul stripe. Davis, the Liberty center, came through with 12, five fields and two fouls.

INDIANS AND AMOCOS TO ROLL BENEFIT GAME

Friday night, February 28, at the Emerick alleys, the Mohican Indians will roll against the Amocos in a benefit match, the proceeds to go to charity. There will be no admission fee, but a collection will be taken up.

Each team plans to present bowlers selected from the City and Silver Palace leagues. Although neither captain has announced his lineup it is expected that such stars as Lou Hymes, Homer Emerick, Randy Kelder, Ken Williams, Art Kellenberger, Ad Jones, Ed Modjeska, Al Koffer, Will Theil and Bill Mergendahl, will be seen in action.

One of the largest crowds ever to witness a bowling match in this section will probably be present to watch this classic.

Thomas Shibe Dies, Headed Philly, Put Americans Into Majors

Philadelphia, Feb. 17 (AP)—Thomas S. Shibe, president of the Philadelphia Athletics and one of the best of the group of men who put the American League into major league baseball in 1901, is dead at the age of 70.

He died last night of a heart ailment aggravated by a heavy cold which he contracted three weeks ago, just as he began his annual winter vacation in Florida. He was brought home immediately and placed in a hospital, where his condition grew steadily worse.

Shibe stepped into unconsciousness early yesterday.

The question of who will replace the veteran manager as head of the baseball club was a matter of conjecture.

In some quarters it was thought his brother John D. Shibe, vice president of the A's, would take the helm. Others, however, believed that Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, might become the new president. Although the ownership of the club stock has been kept a secret, it was reliably reported Mack owns controlling interest.

Born in Philadelphia January 13, 1866, Shibe's interest in baseball was first evident when he played on amateur teams. In 1901 his father, the late Benjamin F. Shibe, and Connie Mack combined their interests to purchase the Athletics' baseball franchise and started the club in the newly formed American League.

Tom Shibe succeeded to the presidency after the death of his father in 1922.

Shibe's interest in baseball also had another angle, that of manufacturing baseballs and baseball equipment. As a partner in the firm of A. J. Resch, Wright and Dilton, Inc., he was a leading factor in the manufacture of baseballs, and that part of the Resch plant was under his supervision.

In his office there is a museum containing baseballs used many years ago when the sport was in its infancy. Shibe invented much of the machinery used in the manufacture of baseballs.

1936 Football Rules Ready for Printers

Palm Springs, Calif., Feb. 17 (AP)—The 1936 edition of the college football rule book was ready for the printers today, practically the same as its 1935 predecessor.

The National Collegiate Football Rules Committee spent three days here taking the old book apart. They put it back together with several minor changes and one major "suggestion."

The "suggestion" was that the so-called "slow whistle" be eliminated. The delayed whistle made it possible for a ball carrier to break away, kick or flip a lateral pass after he had been checked by a tackler. The suggestion means play will be stopped a split second quicker.

Other changes: Players may run, pass or kick a blocked punt that hasn't crossed the scrimmage line. Herebefore the ball has been dead on recovery. Referees will not be too drastic if a player brushes a punter in a legitimate manner. If the offense appears deliberate, last year's five yard penalty holds good.

New Investigation May Loom in Sports

Chicago, Feb. 17 (AP)—The clean-up of the University of Wisconsin athletic department tangle may have stirred up another investigation.

Prof. George A. Works, of the University of Chicago, chairman of the western conference faculty athletic committee, today pulled the other nine members of his group to determine whether an investigation of the Badger situation should be made.

Professor Works said that, in his judgment, the Wisconsin board of regents had violated a conference rule which vests control of athletics in the faculty by ordering the dismissal of Dr. Walter E. Meenwell, director of athletics, and Dr. Clarence W. Spears, head football coach.

The campus at Madison buzzed with reports that Gay Sandt, assistant football coach and winner of eight letters in his athletic career at Wisconsin, would be named new director of athletics.

Friday night at Holy Cross hall the Hawks defeated the Emeralds 31 to 22. The line-ups: Hawks—Riley, Van Ruren, Wisniewski, Halstein, Quirk; Emeralds—Wolf, Brooks, Malsenholder, Murphy, Schommaker.

Norway Wins Highest Standing At Olympics Conclusion Sunday

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, Feb. 17 (AP)—The twin villages of Garmisch and Partenkirchen, mecca for a million winter sports enthusiasts during the past 10 days, were recovering today from what was probably the biggest day in their history at the conclusion of the fourth Olympic winter games.

Attracted by the closing events and the presence of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and other high Nazi officials, 130,000 people crowded into town yesterday to stand ankle deep in the mud caused by a sudden thaw, struggle with Nazi guards in a riotous scene at the ski stadium after they had seen Birger Ruud add to Norway's numerous triumphs by winning the ski jump and finally to see the colorful closing ceremony at twilight.

The ski stadium was the scene of the wildest excitement when members of the Nazi labor service corps blocked the exits for two hours until Hitler and his official party departed. The milling crowd, struggling to leave or to catch a glimpse of the leaders, shoved and screamed and was held firmly but roughly in check by the guards. Two persons were injured in the jam.

Officials estimated the total attendance during the 10 days of the games at about one million, of whom 800,000 paid admissions to various events. No estimate was available on gate receipts but they were believed to have been ample to cover all expenses.

In the games Norway's sturdy ski runners and jumpers and polished speed skaters, swamped the opposition to the tune of 146 points in the unofficial scoring.

The Australian State of Queensland possesses the largest opal field in the world. It occupies an area of more than 200,000 square miles and extends from Quilpie, in the southwest, to Ferny Creek, in the Wilton district, a distance of nearly 350 miles, while the average width of the field is approximately 40 miles. Opals were first discovered in this locality early in 1890, and opal production has continued on the field ever since.

Kingston Bows to Jewels, 13-20, Plays Passaic for Elks Tonight

Frank Morgenweck's Cities Service team lost to the New York Jewels at Brooklyn Sunday night 13-20, in a slow American Basketball League game, which saw the Gasoliers make only three baskets from scrimmage.

The Kingston boys never did get started, and lost every period to the Jewels, who did their best scoring in the second when they made 10 of their points. Last night's setback has stirred the Morgenweckers and they hope to get back into the win column tonight when they clash with the Passaic club at the Municipal Auditorium for the benefit of the Elks.

Here with Passaic will be Rusty Saunders, the old pro who likes to rough it up; Rabinowitz, ex-collegiate tosser who put a crimp in Kingston's chances last Wednesday at Passaic; Seltzer, Kellett and Base Rabinowitz scored 14 points against Kingston last week, and probably will endeavor to give another exhibition tonight.

Tickets for the game have been selling rapidly according to reports and one of the largest gatherings ever seen in the Auditorium is expected for the tilt.

Kingston is anxious to win this skirmish, and hopes to play class A ball. The locals not only want to get back the one they lost at Passaic but to redeem themselves after last night's duel with the Jewels in which Corky Stanton was the only one to score more than once from scrimmage. He made two fields and Kintzing one. Carl Husta tossed in five fouls for the best Kingston score.

George Slott with three fields and six fouls was the leading scorer of the game. He made 12 of the Jewels' points.

Schwenk To Toss Up First Ball Tonight

Alderman at Large John J. Schwenk today practiced tossing up a basketball in preparation for the Elks' game at the Auditorium tonight. The president of the common council is to throw up the first ball in place of Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, who is vacationing.

An ex-basketball player himself, Alderman at Large John J. Schwenk will feel at home on the court tonight, especially as the game is for the Elks, of which he is a member, and for the worthy cause of charity.

Opponents in the game will be the Kingston Cities Service team and Passaic, two American League clubs. Results of the contest will count in the league standing. Tickets have been selling well and a good crowd is expected.

3,000 Estimated at Phoenicia Sunday For Winter Sports

County Clerk James A. Simpson today estimated that approximately 3,000 winter sports enthusiasts visited Phoenicia over the week-end to take part in or watch the activities on the ski slopes of that village, where he resides.

The influx of sportsmen came into Phoenicia by automobile, mostly, and by train. The Sunday ski train carrying some 500 to the mountains from all along the Hudson river. More than 175 week-end guests occupied the hotels and boarding houses. One hostelry reported serving more than 500 dinners than it ordinarily would during the summer vacation season. A refreshment stand proprietor said he sold $100 worth of hot dogs.

Parking space for autos yesterday was at a premium, and many left their cars along the state road while they waited the ski slopes.

Mr. Simpson said that the biggest week-end to fast probably will be enjoyed over Washington's Birthday, February 22. There are only a few boardings left at the hotels and are expected to be gone by the middle of the week.

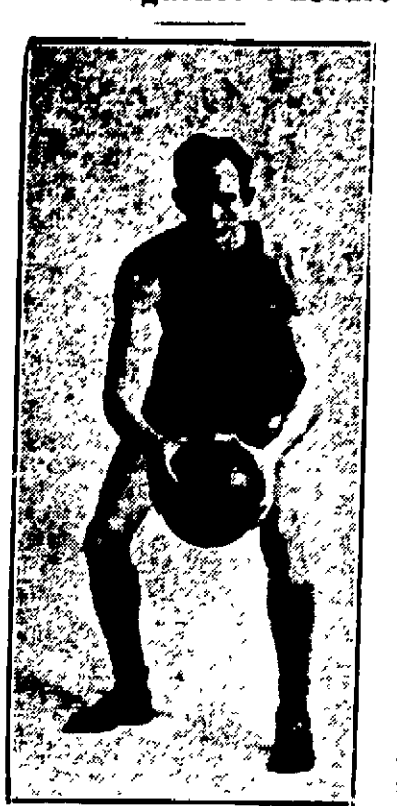

The dulcimer

The dulcimer is an instrument having metallic strings stretched over a trapezoidal sounding-board, with a compass of two or three strings. It is played with one hand hammering the strings and with the other hand moving the strings up and down.

And we read in the history of Rome of the old general who won a battle against the Vandals by ordering them to play on dulcimers at the end of the day and during the night.

The dulcimer was extensively used during the Middle Ages in England and Spain, and is still found in Hungarian folk music, where it is called cimbalom.

To Play With Kingston Against Passaic

HANK KURTYKA.

Hank Kurtyka has been released by the Buffalo Bisons and will play with Kingston in the game against Passaic tonight at the Auditorium in the Elks Club game.

Assistant District Attorney N. Le Van Haver represented Manager Frank Morgenweck in procuring Kurtyka's release from Buffalo—for a consideration.

Kurtyka played with Kingston last year in the state league and would have been with the home team again this year were it not for contract difficulties as a result of his having signed with both Buffalo and Kingston.

Record Crowd Saw Toboggan Races at Woodstock Sunday

Woodstock village was jammed with automobiles Sunday for the toboggan races in which 18 teams competed and the victorious unit was that placed in the competition by the Woodstock Winter Sports Association.

The winning team was made up of Frank Barranger, Harold Shultis, Donald Jackson and Marvin Wolven. These speedsters slid down the slope at the lightning like clip of 26 1-3 seconds average to take first place.

Three other teams followed right behind. West Hurley second, Shokan, third and Kingston No. 1, fourth. Their averages were West Hurley, 27 seconds; Shokan, 27 1-3 seconds; and Kingston No. 1, 27 2-3 seconds.

Rosendale had a team in the race, too, its time being 30 seconds.

The crowd that assembled to watch the races was thrilled apently, especially those who took their places near the turn in the run where the spills occurred. There were no serious injuries, although some of the riders suffered minor abrasions and brush burns.

Those who gathered for the event were from Kingston and vicinity, traveling by auto and from New York and stations along the river, making the trip by train. The estimated attendance was 2,000.

Battery A Breaks Even In Two Games

Battery A won and lost in week-end games.

Saturday night, at the armory, Battery A defeated the 52d Field Brigade of Brooklyn 12 to 26, after an 11 to 10 first half. Spitzer, Bell and Bradford made 34 points altogether.

Sunday afternoon Battery A played the first game as a member of the Walkill Valley League, having taken the place of the Kingston Aces. The soldiers lost, the Laydon Berk-wits team of Newburgh taking them over 35 to 24.

Oil Long Known; Use for It in the Ancient Wars

The existence of oil has been known and used to some extent for thousands of years. The name of Noah's ark was called with asphalt or pitch, which floated to the surface in the Dead Sea. It was used as mortar in the construction of the Tower of Babel, and ancient Egyptians used it to preserve the wrappings of their mummies. Volcanodora was used as asphalt for paving when he used it to smooth the streets of Babylon over which he was accustomed to ride in his golden chariot. Petroleum also found its use in ancient wars.

According to legend, the ancient Greeks destroyed the threatening Scythian fleet by covering the waters around it with oil and then lighting it. And we read in the history of Rome of the old general who won a battle against the Vandals by ordering them to play on dulcimers at the end of the day and during the night.

The dulcimer was extensively used during the Middle Ages in England and Spain, and is still found in Hungarian folk music, where it is called cimbalom.

OLDEST U. S. SALOON MOVES TO NEW HOME

Famed New Orleans Hostelry Now Night Club.

New Orleans—America's oldest saloon—the Old Absinthe house—is now operating as it did for 120 years before the era of Volstead, writes a correspondent on the Kansas City Star.

But the ancient place of refreshment now is only a shadow of its former self, for the famous bar and the more than a century old fixtures all have been removed a block down Bourbon street, where they still are being used to dispense beverages in a 150-year-old building which displays proudly the sign, "Old Absinthe House Bar."

But despite the fact that it now has been transformed into a night club, with a jazz band and dance floor, the Old Absinthe house still retains sufficient historical importance to lure visitors to the Crescent City.

The Old Absinthe house is something more than merely America's oldest saloon. The ancient building, in the heart of the Vieux Carre, forms a page on which is written one of the most vivid and colorful chapters of America's history. Beneath its ancient roof of slate and sheets of lead, within those walls of thin and narrow brick, brought to New Orleans in the holds of sailing ships and laid and faced with stucco, behind the heavy doors of great planks hinged and braced with iron, hammered out by slaves nearly two centuries ago, scenes have been enacted that have no counterpart in the pages of American history.

Famous Patrons.

At the tables and at the bar, Andrew Jackson drank. The Marquis de Lafayette, Jean Lafitte and his brother, Pierre, and Dominick You, the traitor leaders, who fought under Jackson at the Battle of New Orleans, at knew the pleasure of its hospitable pillows. There the bulky William Howard Taft leaned against the bar and watched the absinthe turn from green to milky white before the barage was banned from sale, and there, hour after hour, sipping his drink, stood O. Henry, then a New Orleans newspaper reporter known to his employers and his fellow employees more as Sidney Porter. There Lafcadio Hearn was wont to rattle with a few of his cronies and spin tales. And it was there that Missourian, Mark Twain, met with his Mississippi river friends in the days he became famous as America's foremost humorist.

At the bar Alexis, Grand Duke of Russia, quaffed his deep drink before hastening to steal a glimpse of New Orleans' famous quadroon ball; Jenny Lind peeped in on her way to sing at the old French Opera house; Thackeray visited the place for his apertur when the noted British novelist was visiting America. And there drank Aron Burr, who came down the river on a barge rowed by slaves, his head filled with dreams of a new empire of the West. And the idol of the New Orleans Creoles, Gen. Pierre Gustave Toussaint Beauregard, was a regular patron for his Creole appetizer.

Reeks With History

The place reeks with history, nearly a century and a half of it. It was there that Jean Lafitte slipped his absinthe the night before he was captured by the forces of Governor Claiborne in 1813 and lodged for safekeeping in the prison of the old Calabdo. Brought to trial in New Orleans for piracy, he employed the best legal talent available and managed to beat the case. But upon returning to his headquarters at Grand Terra he again set up his piratical establishment and the American governor was forced to put a price on his head. Soon after he fought a battle with a British man-of-war on his own account, putting up such a ferocious fight that the British sought to enlist him in their own service, offering him immunity from any punishment for his former deeds as a pirate in addition to an award of $50,000 in gold.

New Masses of Cold
From the Northwest

Chicago, Feb. 17 (AP)—Down from the nation's northwestern "refrig-erating plant" swept new masses of rigid temperatures and additional snow today.

The forecast generally was continued cold, snow, rain, sleet
and little hope for relief in the near future.

St. Paul, Minn., had minus 15 at 1
a. m. (Central Standard Time) with the forecast "severe cold." Strong wind swept loose snow into new drifts in North Dakota, where the early temperature was minus 35 at Minot.

Early yesterday Dickinson and Williston, N. D., registered an official minus 50.

Traffic accidents over the weekend, many indirectly charged to the weather, totaled at least 50. Michigan reported four deaths from the cold, and a four-year-old girl fell through a hole in ice at Little Falls,
N. J., and was drowned.

Near Paducah, Ky., the eight men marooned on a federal work-boat in the Ohio river since February 7, were rescued yesterday.

New York aided the sanitation department's army of 28,385 men as they worked to clear ice-covered and snow-banked streets.
The cold wave predicted for two successive days petered out on its way from the northwest.

TOO MANY CLAIMS SPOIL
THE MEDICINE MAN'S GAME.

Although not nearly as common as they used to be, there are still occasional quack medicine vendors who stick to the old and illegal labels
that claim for their nostrums curative powers over at least a good part of the ills and ailments that affect mankind.

Recently, for example, drug inspectors picked up samples of what were labeled "Devonshire's Earth Salts," marketed by F. S. Powers & Co., Crystal Lake, Ill. These were offered as a treatment for the following assortment of diseases and conditions: Pneumonia, cancer, diphtheria, typhoid fever, kidney and bowel trouble, appendicitis, intestinal worms and tape worms, locomotor ataxia, nervous disease, rheu-

PERSIAN COURSES ADDED TO SYRIAN COLLEGE STUDY

Beirut, Syria (AP)—Persian will be added to the crowded language curriculum of the American University of Beirut where students of 33 nationalities get modern education.

The tongue of Xerxes and Darius was included at the behest of Iran's government, which feared that the stay of their youthful scholars in Syria might wean them from the parent language.

All teaching at the institution, founded in 1866, is in English. At first Arabic was tried, but the translation of text-books required more time than the teaching itself.

New Store Front
For Winter's Store

Work was started this morning by Peter C. Osterhoudt & Son, local contractor, on the installation of new front in the E. Winter's Sons store on Wall street. The present front will be replaced by a modern two store front and the store will be divided into two separate stores, one to be occupied by the Winter's book, stationery and music store and the other by a new millinery firm which has taken a lease.

The store formerly occupied by the Sweeney & Schonger sporting goods firm will be remodeled and a separate entrance made from Wall street. This store will then be taken over by the new concern, announcement of which will be made at a later date.

This Truck Figured
In Two Collisions

The Ford dump truck of Frank Churchwell of 61 Pine Grove avenue, which was working on snow removal
for the city, figured in two auto collisions on Sunday. The first was early Sunday morning when the truck was in collision with a car driven by David R. Long on Mc-Entee street, in which a young woman was slightly injured, and the second crash occurred at Delaware and Hasbrouck avenues at 6:40 o'clock Sunday evening when the truck was in collision with a car driven by John P. Erbe of 159 Washington avenue. Richard Bruck of Murray street was cut on the forehead in this accident. Both drivers in reporting the crash to police headquarters stated that the road was rutted and that they were unable to pull out of the center of the street.

Things might be worse. Thank Heaven, while foreign nations are grappling with war perils, we're merely troubled with politics.

DALMATIAN ISLAND CHEESE
FINDS AMERICAN MARKET

Split, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslavs
in the United States are consuming
the entire production of sheep cheese
made on the little islands of Olib, Silba and Molat, along the Adriatic coast of Dalmatia.

The inhabitants of the islands
have formed a cooperative to produce a special kind of cheese obtained from native sheep raised with Spanish merino. They have found a ready market among the Yugoslav owners of restaurants in America for their product at about 25 cents a pound.

The output at present is small, the cooperative owning only about 1,500
sheep.
